

Paranormal Perspective

Seeing Spirits (The Second Sight)

(Following Spirits) @YvetteBam: I saw a spirit named Deka at my old house for a solid 4 years. She always wore the same thing, and would often appear behind me in reflections (Window Reflections, Mirror Reflections, things like that) though, occasionally, I saw her in front of me... She never said anything, and it took me about two years to say anything to anyone, at which point my dad admitted to also having seen her twice! At the end of our time in that house, she started moving things around and making a lot of noise. I've been to places that have made me almost collapse because of the negative energy that is residual there, in particular, this really old hotel in Warsaw, Poland and one of my best friends' summer houses. I will never forget entering those places and having a swarm of energy feel like it's literally attacking me.

(Dead Photos) @Verlynk: At my Grandma's funeral, my sister wanted me to take a photo of her (This is not weird in the Philippines), I tried to take a few and it just wouldn't work. I took some that was of her surroundings to see if the camera was broken, anywhere, but her, and flash after flash it would take the photos! So, I told my sister that because she barely knew me, maybe she should ask for her permission... Sure enough, the first photo was taken. I truly believed after that, another moral of my story is that respect is forever. This is a memory I would never forget and yes, I was thoroughly spooked for a while, so I continue to pay my respects to the dead with no religion attached.

(When He Was With Jesus) @Jam_Eyemil: My son has walked and talked with Jesus. He went to a place he calls the "Speakr Place". There was a tree there, with flowers of all shapes, sizes, colors and types, but the biggest white roses, shaped like hearts, were Jesus' flowers. There was a speaker, like the old radio looking speakers, that was connected to Heaven, and he could talk to Heaven through it. He said he heard lots of voices talking at once. Jesus played with our cat and even put her on his head, apparently there's lots of animals up there, and they all come up to Jesus and smell Him, as if He smells amazing. His eyes are brown when He's happy, but when He gets angry, they look like fire. I love hearing my son talk about it... It makes me happy.

(Explaining The Paranormal) @KelseAnderthal: It's very real and it makes me sad how children are discouraged when they experience the paranormal. I've heard beginn experiences with ghosts but have always worried/been curious about demons. Honestly, I've had the scariest dream in the last year that involved the devil hunting my family and I in our home, killing them and then coming to rape me, It was terrible, and honestly, I worry and want to know how to safely fight these negative forces.

(Past Life Remembrance) @Eff_YouPay_Me: My 9 year old son remembers one of his past lives in detail, from the mid 19th century. I think he recalls this particular life because something traumatic happened, I won't go into detail, but he would say certain things about that time period that even I didn't know so I googled it and there everything was.

(Lights & Whispers) @AtomsAndPotions: Often. I'll see lights or orbs in the corner of my eye, or that feeling of spider webs or feathers on your face. I'll be in a room and I can feel the change in room temperature. Sometimes, I'll even wake up at 2 or 3, anywhere around that time. Whatever "they" are, they mess with my electricity too and occasionally, I'll get random whispers in my ear but I can never hear what they're saying...

(Battling Demons) @AaronVangorp: I've cast out demons on a few occasions... I have also seen them a number of times. I have also felt angels, or Messengers of God, though not seen them. I have felt angelic and demonic presences at times. Whenever it's demonic, the presence, I usually assault it with Bible scripture and command it to leave, to which it does leave... Unless the demon believes it has a right to be there through someone else's allowing it. If and when that's the case, I either cast the demon out of the rest of the way, or if it's someone else's house or something over which I have no authority, I simply forbade the demon from messing with me and declare that I, and those with me, belong to the Lord and the demon cannot trespass! After that, I usually have no issues. If a demon attacks me during sleep, I renounce it in the name of Jesus and command it to leave. I then ask the Holy Spirit to reveal to me what gave the demon the right to attack. When the Lord shows me the door, the demon was able to access my life via I "close it".

(Witchcraft Gone Wrong) @Tyler.Muckerman: I was told to jump off of a cliff by my ex's sister who practiced Witchcraft. She did some weird like dance type thing and I lost control of my body, my mind felt like it was in a cloud and then I noticed I was sliding off the edge of the cliff and I was tackled by a bystander who assumed I was suicidal. Also, she made my friend appear to be disappearing and reappearing... but he was actually just standing next to me... He started yelling, that I needed to stop pretending he wasn't there and some other stuff I don't feel comfortable sharing... but to say the least, she was never the same after that day. She currently lives in a residential treatment facility because she sees demons and I have recovered my mind after a lengthy three months...

(Malevolent Presences) @IAmTryDelc: Me and my aunt were 15 and we have always seen and felt Spirits. The connection was deeper whenever we were together – Well, one night, it was storming and the satellite TV went out. Then, the lights went out. So, us being like siblings, ran into her room because it was in front of the house and we could see. The back was woods and that was my room. So, we are sitting in bed, just talking and then it's gets eerily silent... All of a sudden, we feel a dark presence... IT gets cold... Now, our rooms were Jack-n-Jill style, so it was a shared bathroom. There are three doors in the room, the main, close and bathroom. There is a cordless phone on the nightstand next to the closet. The bathroom is on the other side of the closet. The bathroom door was ajar... Closet and room doors are closed. Okay, back to the story. So, we are under the covers and we are praying that any spirit who means us harm be rebuked in the name of Jesus (Baptist Raised). Then, the lights come back on, so we start to feel okay. There's no TV, but we still have lights and our phones, but now we feel that presence again... Strong this time... and I take out my Virgin Mobile camera phone and snap a quick few pictures! I actually had photo proof to show my dad who never believed us! That phone died a few years back, never to be revived sadly. But then, after the pictures, we ran into the hallway to my parents room to wake my dad. Of course he dismissed us, sleepily and we went back into the room. Once we got there, the energy in the room was cold and evil. We immediately started praying and then the cordless phone flew across the room, into the bathroom and then the bathroom door slammed shut! We start screaming, crying and ran to wake up my dad AGAIN, only for him to dismiss us AGAIN! We cried, prayed and slept in the living room on the couch with bigger knives and our Great Grandma's Bible... I still see and feel spirits all the time...

(Encountering Spirits) @NamXHuynh: Yes, I have. The first time was when I brought home my first bible. The second time was when I was sleeping in the middle of the night, I woke up to a dark figure floating in the corner of my room. I pretended to fall back asleep, but it never left, it actually got closer to my bed and that's when I said "In the name of Jesus Chris, get of out of my house!" It left. I've never experienced this when I was an Atheist.

(Explaining The Paranormal) @DaniDoesStuff: I've had at least 20 experiences and a degree in Neuroscience, so I know I'm not insane. Physics can explain the paranormal over nonlinear dimensions, so I've grown to just kind of accept it as an addition to science that we haven't developed the technology for.

(Ghostly Friends) @DguemWotkzn: I've lived in a haunted house for many years and made friends with an invisible entity. He or she would move things when I asked them to. It would even return a ball when I would toss it to another room. I don't think it was a gohst because it would go with me around the farm. I think it left for now because I haven't noticed it around for a few months...

(Lingering Spirits) @SparklyUndertaker.Art: I believe I have a Spirit Guide that's been with me since a Near Death Experience. On the Low Vibrational Side, I've heard gravely voices say my name, along with a weird scratching sound... I also have these weird visions when I close my eyes of a hideaous, disfigured creature trying to talk to me... I've also experienced Dematerialization (Apportation) with a few objects, one of which never rematerialized. Then, I had an encounter with a Witch who tried to see the entity with me but he wouldn't let her and she said she "Couldn't get through."

(Haunted Hysteria) @DguemWotzkns: I am living in an older house and I have had some very strange things happen. There was an unseen entity of some kind that lived there with me. I would throw a ball through the doorway curtains, into an abandoned room and the entity would throw it back to me. I would see large, basketball size orbs of light passing from one room to another. There would be weird things, like a glass ashtray shattering without being touched and lights turning themselves off... IT would even open the door and let my cat into the house. I haven't witnessed anything in about a year.

(Haunted Houses) @24.7____: I've lived in a home where doors would slam, dining room table mats would be flung off the table the following morning. The dryer would slam shut if left open. Footsteps were heard! Screams were heard! I heard a woman scream into my window, but when I had enough balls to look out mywindow I saw nothing. I had to move out of the home, it was pretty terrifying.

(Unexplained Aerial Phenomena) @AlexMackeyyy: I was standing outside of my front door, watching the sky at night and after a few minutes go by, I seen a blue ball form in the sky, dart forward into a loop type motion and then suddenly disappeared. I'm convinced that what I observed was supernatural. No way was this "Thing" I seen made of materials of this Earth, it had to be spiritual. I now know how some can be driven to madness once they obsrve something like this. It's truly fascinating.

(Sleep Paralysis) @JamesRakThe3rd: Sleep Paralysis... I have a cousin who recently experienced Sleep Paralysis. You're awake, but you can't move or speak. I've seen spirits before and I wasn't sleeping, and I was both able to move and to speak... Sleep Paralysis is that your mind is asleep, able to dream, yet your eyes can be partially open and you're very aware that you cannot move or talk – It's called "Paralysis" for a reason. You also hallucinate during this. The reason why so many people recall Demons during the experience is because of a pessimistic instinct; a feeling that something extremely bad or terrifying is going to happen because you are bonded, you have no defense. Therefore, your mind races and you imagine the worst...

(Bizarre Brushups) @Zxtsu: Yes, well, this one time, when I was with a Witch, who had a spell on his car that wouldn't allow any ghost to get inside and I felt the... Spirit bounce as it tried to get in, it was very bizarre... and it wasn't just me because they felt it as well, and thus explained to me what that feeling was. That, and all the times I've felt a ghostly presence at my friends house when I slept over and was awake around 2 or 3 AM. Once, it even tried to scare me by making a heavy breathing sound which I thought sounded demonic. (I was not high for this.)

(Sleep Paralysis) @Jam_Eyemil: My boyfriend experiences Sleep Paralysis and has experienced it his whole life. He remembers a couple incidents extremely vividly. He was around 5, and he woke up and things, he saw them as Witches, were surrounding his bed, doing circles and chanting, and then he raised up off the bed and started to go into a wall, but he broke out of it. Another time, he woke up and knew something was wrong so he hid under this built-in desk thing they had in the hallway between his room and his parents room, and the floor turned to blood... There was something black going around his house and it seemed like it was looking for him, and cackling... When we first got together, he told me about it and it took like 3 months for it to happen: He woke me up by breathing really hard and fast, so I lifted his arm and he broke out of it and went from laying on his back in the bed to ON TOP OH HIS HEADBOARD in one movement because his muscles were so tense. It's crazy to watch from the outside, and I know it's spiritual because it only happens when he starts to get close to God again.

(Hotel Strangeness) @Republican_Savages: I don't have one as of yet, but my parents told me a story of something that happened to them: Back when they had just gotten married, they were sharing a hotel room together. My dad was showering and my mom was sitting on her bed reading a magazine, with some beauty products and a drink next to her. She closed the magazine and went to go use the restroom and when she walked back into the room, everything was rearranged and the magazine was opened up on the other side of the room.

@TheWarMongers: I went through the dark night of the soul and let me tell you, for years, everyday was paranormal. It would mostly be visions, I would see something happening to me it would look like the moment like reality, but it would be a vision, but after about 10 minutes my vision that I just saw would really be happening! Imagine how crazy that would make you feel! That was going on in like 2001 when the Trade Centers crashed, I dealt with it for like 8 more years after that.

@KissTheRingsBitch: I saw a ghost after I tried to dig up a grave when I was a little boy.

(Spiritual Sensitivity) @ScarShayla: Not really anything significant, just like the odd noise in my house here and there... Sometimes I feel an entity is peeking around a corner or behind me. I do remember my brother saying one time he saw a shadowed figure in a tall hat... To be honest, it could've been that he was experiencing Sleep Paralysis. I've heard some pretty freaking things from my mom, like Out Of Body Experiences. She told me a story about how a few years ago, she had the urge to call her uncle who she hadn't spoken to in months and found out he was about to die from killing himself. I believe in stuff like that happening where a force in the universe tells you to do something and it affects someone else. Kind like the show Touch where everyone and everything is connected.

(Explaining The Paranormal) @Winds_Through_The_Macas: Yes: All of us mortals are in a parallel dimension of paranormal reality. It is called hell, and it's because humans are farmed like animals, managed by corrupt government officials and owned by devils. The humans are coerced out of their native habitats and used. The only cure is the imagination and courage that the you have, to imagine and lead better lives into their future as these decrepit devils die out.

(Electrical Interference) @WTFPop: I seem to turn off street lamps whenever I'm heavily thinking of something. It's happened throughout my life and too often for it to be just a coincidence. When I was 14, in broad daylight, I saw an all black, veiled entity on my neighbors porch, he was about 7 ft. tall, I thought it was someone playing a prank, I turned around for 2 seconds, looked back and it was gone... That's it for me.

(Life Long Encounters) @DwayneJohnsonsWifeyJean4Life2: I was 9 when I think I saw something strange... Me and my mom were driving home from Louisiana. I was asleep in the back, but somehow I was awakened... My first instinct was to look up... It was nighttime, and I've always loved the stars at night. Something wasn't right though... There was a beam of light coming from the sky without an apparent object for it to do so. It didn't move. It was silent all around, like silence everywhere. It just stayed in one area in the fields, near a farm... I was abducted when I was 10, but another alien saved me before I was experimented on. I remember how lightening fast the alien was... This one didn't look like the others. He told me I'd be alright, and that he was taking me back home – He said all of this without moving his lips. He looked down at me and just smiled... I think he followed me there and snuck onto the UFO to save a lot of people, maybe... Not just me, I've always been grateful and think about him and thank him. I remember being on the table and a liquid that tasted like sweet syrup covered my face, I remember it getting in my eyes. There were lots of fluids, I don't know what the stuff was made of. It hurt when I was dropped back on my bed through the roof of our house. I literally bounced off the bed and since then, I've had extreme pain and joint cramping as well as another condition. At 11, I always saw a tall, dark figure watching me while I slept. At times I couldn't move anything but my eyes. It would feel like a huge snake moving inside of my mattress... Sometimes I could feel a hand touching me all over. A force would lift me up and slam me onto my bed, then the bed would go crazy! I remember being thrown around in the air, over and over again – It scared the shit out of me! I finally heard a voice say, "Say the Lord's Prayer." I felt something let me go, I jumped off my bed and sprinted to the couch! I slowly went back, turned my lights on and investigated. I started rubbing my hands over the top of the bed. I felt nothing there. I felt safe enough to go back to sleep, and when I did, I had a dream of my Grandma. She was walking towards me, her head grew and grew until it was large enough to consume my entire body, then she said "Eat." On Sunday morning, my mom asked if I wanted to go to church with her, it was Communion. This time I said "Okay." I joined the church that Sunday and never doubted since. Then, once people started acting viciously towards me as if I had done something horrible and never met them before. I started having strange dreams of fighting and killing the devil, as well as having the ability to see and feel evil. I even have Psychic Visions for can make things happen by willing it with my mind. I try to be care of what and how I think, it's almost as if I've been enhanced mentally and physically.
